

UPS-A-DAISY FOR ANTARCTIC MEN

Members of the 1966 South African Antarctic expedition are undergoing a rigorous physical training course in preparation for their 13-month stay in the Antarctic

The course, which is to last three weeks, is being held at Voortrekkerhoogte

The leader of the expedition, Sean Kavanagh, who will be going for the second time, is on the left with Durant Barnard, one of the radio operators.

It was announced in Pretoria last night that a new post, that of geophysicist to study aurora and air glow, had been established. It will be held by Mr Huube Czniak.
